Welcome from the NASDAD President

Dear NASDAD friends and family,

I am so pleased to be able to welcome you to the 75th anniversary convention of NASDAD in Hawaii. If you haven't already made your arrangements, please do it soon! We expanded our room block at the Hilton Waikoloa Village Resort because we have had huge interest but even this expanded room block is finite. This is going to be a great meeting! It is in a tropical paradise to be sure but the idea of coming together with other dental professionals to make a difference in our world is what really excites me. I love the idea that NASDAD members want to reach out of their comfort zone to touch the lives of people around the world with dental care. With its focus on mission and dental education, NASDAD is a vital part of our dental community with an amazingly rich history of involvement in Christian dental education, professional association, and mission outreach.

NASDAD not only supports mission dentistry around the world but it is my vision that it should be a place where young dental professionals who are getting ready to start practice can connect with mentors to get them started in their dental careers and guild them with advice, leads, and encouragement. This year we have started a Students of NASDAD - learn to say, "SNASDAD." The goal of which is to bring students with our values and goals into contact with NASDAD. This is being done at LLU School of Dentistry with various social and professional gatherings and we hope to connect with more students enrolled in other institutions. We just finished our first SNASDAD weekend. We started with dinner and vespers, and a presentation from Peter Nelson on his trip to Mt. Everest. Sunday morning was started with breakfast and a super awesome round-table mastermind session where dental and hygiene students gathered in small groups with experienced facilitators to discuss life outside of school, including jobs, loans, associateships, continuing education, practice growth, and several other topics. The goal was to share some of the Awesome of NASDAD with these students who will continue to be part of NASDAD in the future. If you have not reached out to dental and dental hygiene students in your community, I encourage you to do so. I have had the pleasure of talking with many of them and find them to be outstanding individuals with hearts for service and the desire to communicate with other professionals in their future field.

Again, welcome to the 75th anniversary of NASDAD in Hawaii where we are Creating our Future and Celebrating our Past!

Cheers,

Brian E. Evans, DDS

Spiritual Emphasis Speaker

Friday Vespers - “Missions Today - History or Future?”

We will discuss the role of dental missions in many countries around the world and what the future looks like, including LLU’s involvement and strategies for mission growth.

Sabbath - “Adventist Tribalism”

What has made our church unique and successful can also polarize and separate us. How do we create an organization that demonstrates Christ’s love for the marginalized in this world?

Richard H. Hart, MD, DrPH, President, Loma Linda University Health

About Dr. Hart

Dr. Richard Hart currently serves as President of Loma Linda University Health – the umbrella corporation that includes the enterprise’s academic, healthcare, and research organizations. He earned his Doctor of Medicine degree from LLU School of Medicine in 1970, followed by a Doctor of Public Health in International Health at Johns Hopkins University in 1977, also becoming Board certified in Preventive Medicine.

Dr. Hart has served Loma Linda University since 1972 in a variety of ways that include serving as Chair of the School of Public Health’s Department of Health Sciences, Director of the Center for Health Promotion, Chair of the School of Medicine’s Department of Preventive Medicine, Dean of the School of Public Health, and President (previously Chancellor) and CEO of the University.

Dr. Hart’s vision extends beyond the walls of Loma Linda University not only to the local communities, but also to the villages and towns, the hospitals and mission clinics, in the farthest reaches of our globe. He has served as Chief of Party for a USAID project in Tanzania where he developed a national maternal and child health program that is still a model for Africa today. His passion for humanitarian service has led to the development of a variety of programs at Loma Linda University including, Students for International Mission Service (SIMS) and Social Action Community Health System (SACHS)– a local low-cost clinic for the medically underserved; and more recently, to the establishment of the San Manuel Gateway College, part of LLU’s San Bernardino Campus.

Dr. Hart also serves as president of Adventist Health International (AHI), a management corporation established to restore Adventist mission hospitals worldwide.

NASDAD Beginnings By Melvin Pug Lund

As NASDAD celebrates 75 years, join us to hear about the School of Dentistry at LLU in those early years. Dr. Melvin (Pug, to most people) Lund will provide a personal narrative as one person who was an integral part in how his colleagues involved with NASDAD helped bring their idea to life and to evolve into what is now LLU School of Dentistry. You'll enjoy hearing about how those who were instrumental in establishing NASDAD had to be unified on their mission and find a way to accomplish their goal – establish a Seventh-day Adventist dental school. The focus of this presentation will include Web Prince, Ross Stromberg, Ralph Steinman, Lloyd Baum, Harold Schnepfer and, of course, Pug Lund. You'll enjoy hearing details of NASDAD and LLUSD early years. If each person could tell their story it would be of interest, each perspective very different, but all with the same goal.

Melvin Pug Lund was asked to join the beginning faculty of LLUSD in 1951. He was appointed as the first Chair of Restorative Dentistry, continuing in that position until 1971. He was the Chair of Operative Dentistry at Indiana University School of Dentistry for 15 years, and continued to work as part-time faculty, working with undergrad and graduate students until age 90. He has authored five dental textbooks and written over 50 dental articles. He has lectured around the world and continues to stay active in the field of dentistry, attending conventions and meetings.

Please register for the banquet by using the Registration form
OR the online registration option.

76th Convention - 2019

We are working to pinpoint the best, most advantageous date & location for the 76th NASDAD Convention. As you know, the NASDAD conventions typically follow ADA annual session and is usually scheduled the weekend immediately prior to the ADA meeting.

In 2019, this standard weekend falls over the Labor Day holiday(August 30-September 2, 2019). Due to the much higher costs typically associated with a holiday weekend, we are also exploring the weekend after the ADA annual meeting (September 12-15, 2019).

So, tentatively mark both weekends in your calendar and check the NASDAD website often for any updates!

Volunteer Opportunities

Did you know the NASDAD website has a dedicated link for short term volunteer opportunities? Check it out, NASDAD.org.

4-WEEKS OR LONGER

If you are interested in 4 weeks or longer volunteer service in a mission dental clinic, please contact Doyle Nick at dnick@llu.edu or 909-558-4607.

MISSION TRIPS SUPERVISING STUDENTS

Look for Dr. Gary Kerstetter from LLU School of Dentistry Office of Service Learning if you would like to volunteer supervising students on Service Learning Mission trips or email him at gkerstetter@llu.edu

The Role of 3D Imaging in the Future of Digital Dentistry

By Heidi Kohltfarber, DDS

OCTOBER 14 & 15 AT 8:00 AM

4 HOURS ON SUNDAY

SUNDAY & MONDAY

Course Synopsis

Cone beam CT has revolutionized the dental field by allowing clinicians to observe the patient in 3D. Not only has this technology increased productivity and efficiency but it allows clinicians to see more anatomy and pathology than was previously observed with conventional dental radiographs. This course is designed to help the dental practitioner to better understand the technology and considerations when purchasing a CBCT for their office as well as correlate the appearance of anatomy in 2D and 3D images and recognize the signs of pathologies using a case based and interactive approach.

Educational Objectives

- Explain the basic technology of cone beam CT, associated radiation risks and the role of CBCT in imaging the maxillofacial region.
- Discuss various technological features and legal ramifications that should be considered when purchasing a CBCT system.
- Recognize and describe the anatomy of the maxillofacial region as presented in CBCT images and correlated with their appearance in a panoramic radiograph.
- Recognize and describe the radiographic signs of pathology with emphasis on disease categories.
- Understand the different radiographic characteristics of a benign and malignant lesion.
- Understand how to approach and review a cone beam CT volume.

Dr. Heidi Bridget Kohltfarber is an associate professor in the Department of Radiologic Imaging at Loma Linda University School of Dentistry as well as an adjunct professor in the Department of Diagnostic Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She received her D.D.S. degree from Loma Linda University in 2003 and became an assistant professor in the Oral Diagnosis, Radiology and Pathology department at Loma Linda University as well as an associate in private practice. In 2012 she received her master's degree in Oral and Maxillofacial Radiology from UNC-Chapel Hill.

She received an NC Tracks Grant in November 2009 for research exploring salivary biomarkers in diabetic patients and a Future Faculty Fellowship at UNC-Chapel Hill in May 2011. Her master's research compared 2D versus 3D radiography in the treatment planning of root canal treated teeth with apical radiolucencies. In 2017, Dr. Kohltfarber received her PhD in Diagnostic Imaging at King's College London focusing on Validation and Diagnostic Efficacy of 3D Surface Models in Dentistry: Temporomandibular Joints. She is currently the owner and managing oral and maxillofacial radiologist for Dental Radiology Diagnostics and a Sirona 3D trainer.

Forensic Dentistry: It's Not Always a Grave Situation

By Mark Porco, DDS

OCTOBER 15 AT 10:00 AM

MONDAY

2 HOURS DENTAL CE CREDIT

Course Synopsis

Forensics and dentistry does not always mean being in the morgue! In this course we will discuss the various disciplines in the forensic sciences, with emphasis on Forensic Odontology. This will start with a brief history of dentistry and the forensic sciences, followed by how Forensic Odontology applies to every dental office and every member of your dental team. Also included will be forensics in the news, and case presentations to allow you to test your forensic skills.

Educational Objectives

- Various disciplines of the forensic sciences
- A history of Forensic Odontology
- The different facets of Forensic Odontology
- How forensics applies to every dental office
- Case presentations
- “Famous” LLUSD alumni in the Forensic Odontology arena

Dr. Porco received his DDS degree from Loma Linda University School of Dentistry in 1988. Following graduation, he and his wife lived and worked in Trinidad and Tobago in the West Indies for two years. He is now in private practice doing general dentistry in Lincoln, California. Dr. Porco has been a member of the Sacramento District Dental Society's Mass Disaster/Forensics Committee since 2000, and chairman of the committee since 2011. He has been fascinated with forensics since taking an elective course his senior year in dental school. While attending many seminars on forensics over the years, he has been actively pursuing his forensic education since attending the Southwest Symposium in 2012. He joined the American Society of Forensic Odontology in 2012 and the American Academy of Forensic Sciences in 2013. He has been a member of the Disaster Mortuary Operational Response Team IX since 2014.

Your Opportunity To Support Students And New Graduates AND The Future Of NASDAD

Dear NASDAD people,

Members of NASDAD have long enjoyed the fellowship of experienced, knowing, faithful friends but worried about the future since our numbers contained few young dental professionals. As long as I remember we have thought the most critical thing we could do would be to attract the younger generation and involve them in the activities of the association.

During this last school year about 20 student leaders, at LLU School of Dentistry, have been very active in planning and staging SNASDAD (Students in NASDAD) events. As a result, not only are many more students aware of NASDAD and its mission but they have a positive opinion of the organization. Our student NASDAD membership roles have increased substantially and I believe a number of those active students will be part of the organization on an ongoing basis. This is part of the answer, for which we have been searching.

We worry, however, that so many of the new graduates see little option to working for a big corporation which employs dentists on subsistence remuneration and does little to encourage excellence in dental care while incentivizing whatever practice modality is best for profitability.

This unfortunate situation gives NASDAD and the members of NASDAD an opportunity to be even more involved with, and beneficial to, the new dental professional's future. NASDAD is positioning itself to be a valuable resource to dental and dental hygiene students (both at LLUSD and other dental schools across the US) by offering support, during the very critical beginning of their professional life, by introducing them to dental professionals in their desired geographical area. We want to introduce them to you, the experienced dentist or dental hygienist, in their expressed area of interest. We have already made such introductions and have witnessed the successful and amazing results of the new collaboration and we fully expect to see it many times in the future. All it takes is interest and some time on your part and we know you will enjoy the result of your interaction with the young professional..

Please, if contacted by a graduate student, know we have been at work to introduce you and that as you take that student or new graduate to lunch or dinner, answer their questions, advise, welcome them into your home and community, and as you mentor them, you will be a most important part of their education and professional career. You will not only be greatly beneficial to them and their family, you will gain a friend and a colleague that will be ever grateful for your kindness. In addition, you will be a significant participant in advancing NASDAD and its many God given activities.

Sincerely and appreciatively,

Doyle Nick DDS, MS
Executive Director
